What is Healthy Community Living?

• A health promotion and self-management program for people with disabilities

• Includes two peer-led independent living skills workshop Community Living Skills & Living Well in the Community

• Healthy Community Living is about all people having opportunities to live well and participate in their communities!
What is Healthy Community Living? (Continued 1)

• A series of workshops people take with their peers to have group discussions on topics relevant to their lives
• Facilitated with a website shown on a TV or screen for a group (3-12 people)
• Focuses on quality of life, building self-determination, relatedness, autonomy & supports
• Fosters peer connections in an independent living setting
What is Healthy Community Living? (Continued 2)

• Provides a fun and challenging way for people to learn more about themselves and their health
• Support people to learn about increasing their independence in the community
• Meets Independent Living core services for your organization
• Created in partnership with people in the disability community
How was Healthy Community Living Created?

• We wanted to stay true to the “nothing about us without us” philosophy of Independent Living

• We brainstormed, outlined and drafted the content for these workshops with the help of several IL staff, their consumers and the staff at APRIL

• Our collaborators provided resources, ideas, mini-focus group, and on the ground feedback about content, activities and the information included within the workshops
Who is Healthy Community Living For?

• Healthy Community Living is for everyone
• Two peer-led independent living skills workshops are meant to help people live the lives they want

Facilitators of Healthy Community Living

• Lets hear from CIL Staff members who have facilitated both the Community Living Skills & Living Well in the Community workshops
• Luke & Leanne will discuss their personal experiences with the workshops
• Demonstrate a group activity from the Community Living Skills Self Advocacy Session
What is it like to be a Facilitator?

• What are the Benefits?
• Did your consumers have successes?
• What were your experiences facilitating the workshops?
Sample Session from Community Living Skills

• To showcase the Healthy Community Living program we wanted to give you a sample of what participating in the workshop might be
• For this group we have chose an activity from Community Living Skills, titled the Knowing Yourself Activity
• This activity was selected from the Self Advocacy session Community Living Skills
• Luke will introduce the activity and Leanne will take us through the activity as a group
What does it mean to advocate?

To advocate is to speak up for yourself or others
Have you been in a situation or has there been a time where you had to speak up for yourself?
Self Advocacy is:

• The ability to speak and act on behalf of yourself
• Making your own choices and working to solve your own problems
Speaking up for yourself is Self Advocacy

• Sometimes when we stand up for ourselves we stand up for others too!
• Standing up for ourselves and others is known as Self Advocacy
Systems Advocacy is:

- Acting or fighting in favor of something
- About working to change a law or policy that affects many people
- A group or groups of people working together toward a common goal
- Focused on the community rather than an individual
Examples of Systems Advocacy

• Advocating with a group to install a ramp for a public building
• Speaking up about issues that are important to you which may lead to policy change
• Writing or emailing your Congress person
• Organizing a protest
Have you ever stood up for or advocated for yourself or others?

Some examples might include:

• Letting someone know you were given the wrong change
• Asking a question out loud in a group
• Asking for an accommodation at work, a raised desk for example
• Asking for help at the store
• Asking for assistance in the polling booth or filling out an application
Knowing Yourself Activity

You are the Expert

- Knowing yourself is an important part of advocacy
- You are the best expert on your life, your disability, and your goals and how to reach them
- You know yourself better than anyone else
Knowing Yourself Activity

Knowing Yourself

In preparing to advocate or consider advocating for yourself, you might ask yourself the following questions:

- What do you feel comfortable or uncomfortable with?
- What is hard for you?
- What is important to you?
- What are your deal breakers?
- What are your values?
- What do you need help with?
Knowing Yourself Activity

Be Yourself

Being a self-advocate can mean:

- Being yourself
- Joining your community and doing what you love
- Not letting what other people think of you get in the way of your beliefs
- Educating others about you and people with disabilities
- Telling your personal story
Knowing Yourself Activity

Introduction to Activity

- Knowing yourself and understanding your values can be challenging.
- Knowing what you like and do not like and understanding your values will help you know yourself better and help you in advocating for yourself.
- It may help you understand what you value if you respond to a statement listed in the following activity.
- Remember there is no right answer, other than what feels right to you.
Knowing Yourself Activity

My Way or No Way Description

- Get ready to think about the statements in the next few cards
- You can either move to different parts of the room or raise the signs provided to you labeled “no way” or “my way”
- If you decide a statement fits for you raise the “my way” sign or move to the “my way” side of the room
- If you decide a statement does not fit for you raise the “no way” sign or move to the “no way” side of the room
- Remember there is no right answer, just consider how these statements fit for you
Knowing Yourself Activity

My Way No Way Statements - 1

- I am good with computers
- I like to read
- I prefer to work by myself rather than in a large group
- I am good at art
- I have no problem standing for long periods of time
Knowing Yourself Activity

My Way No Way Statements - 2

- I value my privacy
- Loud places distract and overwhelm me
- I like being outside
- Spelling words is no problem for me
- I can or want to drive my own car someday
Knowing Yourself Activity

My Way No Way Statements - 3

- I have no problem telling people what I need
- I am good at making friends
- I am working toward a goal
- I know how to ride the bus
- I have asked for an accommodation before
What have participants said?

“I learned I can help others if they need help by giving them resources.”

“The classes were rewarding and resourceful.”

“I learned how to advocate and eat healthier. I also learned how to identify reactions and how to converse with others.”

“I learned that inside disabilities are important to keep in mind and advocate for myself.”

“Our material was very useful and informative!”
